Dear Friend:

I would like to take a moment to request your participation in our "Lend a Voice" program.

How does it work?

SLCD will provide you with program flyers and visually appealing "Lend a Voice" cards which you and your employees can sell to your customers for a minimum purchase of one dollar each. The names of the customers who make a contribution should be written on the cards declaring that they "Lent a voice" to help the School for Language and Communication Development (SLCD) raise necessary funds for programs and services. The purchased cards should be displayed throughout your place of business for all to see.

In 1985 the School for Language and Communication Development was created to help children with language disorders, including those along the autism spectrum continuum, develop their skills to communicate. SLCD is a 501(c) (3), publicly funded not-for-profit educational facility that serves preschool and school age children (K-12). We currently have over 400 students located at three locations and serve families in the 5 boroughs of NYC and Long Island.

One of the benefits of your participation in the program is that it will make a visual statement to your customers that you are taking action to help children with developmental disabilities. In exchange for your contribution and giving us exposure in your neighborhood, we will list your business in our newsletter and on our website as an SLCD Partner.

If you have any questions, feel free to call me at 516-609-2000 x 123. If you agree to participate, please fax the enclosed participation agreement to 516-609-2683 or email lackerman@slcd.org.

On behalf of the children at SLCD, thank you for your consideration.
